A Mental Health Advanced Directive (MHAD) is a legal document that you complete that details instructions and wishes for mental health treatment in times when you are too ill to make your wishes known. The Directive is also known as a Declaration for Mental Health Treatment or a Psychiatric Advanced Directive.

KEY BENEFITS of having a Mental Health Advanced Directive

- Promotes autonomy and empowerment in your mental illness recovery
- Enhances communication between you and your family, friends, health care providers, and other professionals
- Protects you from being subjected to ineffective, unwanted, or possibly harmful treatment or actions
- Helps prevent crises and the resulting use of involuntary treatment or safety interventions such as restraints or seclusion

Should I have a Mental Health Advanced Directive (MHAD) if I’m not sick?

A Mental Health Advanced Directive can help to improve communication between you and your doctor, you and other staff, and you and the family members involved in your recovery. Having a Mental Health Advanced Directive may shorten a hospital stay or help you avoid one altogether.

After completing a Mental Health Advanced Directive, be sure to have several copies of your Directive made. One can be placed in your mental health chart. Keep one so that your loved ones can present it on your behalf if you go to the hospital.

What types of instructions can be included in an MHAD?

You can include the kind of treatment you would or would not want to have. Examples of patients’ preferences are:

- Medications for psychiatric treatment
- Emergency interventions (e.g., seclusion, restraint)
- Electroconvulsive therapy (ECT or shock treatment)
- Consent for research studies
- People you do not wish to visit you
- Who you would want to be your power of attorney in the event you could not make your wishes known.

Can I Use my Wellness Recovery Action Plan (WRAP)?

The Wellness Recovery Action Plan is a structured system for monitoring uncomfortable and distressing symptoms and, through planned responses, reducing, modifying or eliminating those symptoms. It also includes plans for responses from others when your symptoms have made it impossible for you to make decisions, take care of yourself, and keep you safe.

If you have completed a WRAP Plan, you may substitute the Crisis Portion to make your mental health treatment wishes known.
